Geoff Carr Lupus Fellowship

2014/2015

Members of Lupus Ontario have established an annual Fellowship in memory of their colleague the late Geoff Carr. The Fellowship is designed to train a rheumatologist to be an expert in the management of lupus patients. The Lupus fellow will follow patients at an accredited lupus clinic, supervise patient care and education, and become involved in clinical research.

Dr. Tselios earned his Degree in Medicine in 2001 from the Medical School of the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki and his title in Internal Medicine in 2010. In 2013, he completed his PhD Thesis on immune regulation in systemic lupus erythematosus. He has been actively involved in research in the field of Rheumatology and has published several research papers in international medical journals for systemic lupus erythematosus.

Dr. Tselios was awarded the Lupus Ontario's Geoff Carr Fellowship for the academic year 2014-15 and is currently at Toronto Western Hospital's Lupus Clinic working under the supervision of Dr. Murray B. Urowitz and Dr. Dafna D. Gladman.
